ALLIES' DRIVE UPON BULGARS

Attempt to Smash Communication Lines and End Campaign

ATTACK BABWNA PASS

Outcome of Fierce Conflict Yet in Doubt and Reinforcements Rushed to Oppose Allies.

London, Nov. 17.— Three great battles are raging today in southern Serbia.

The capture of Babuna Pass north of Prilep by the Bulgarians from the Serbs, as reported from Athens is believed to be preliminary to a drive upon Monastir.

About Strumnitza the Anglo-French expedition is attacking in force and the outcome hangs in doubt Military experts here say that capture of Strumnitz will cut the Bulgar line of communications and open the way for the Anglo-French to drive upon the Nish-Constantinople railroad to block the Austro-German advance.

The attack also is designed to upset the Macedonian campaign of the Bulgars.

At Veles, French troops are directing a fierce attack along the Vardar river. Bulgar re-enforcements have been rushed to the city's defense and the outcome is still in the balance.

Athens, Nov. 17.— Overwhelming the Serbs north of Prilep, Bulgarians entered Babuna pass today.

Small bodies of Serbs are still defending some of the heights, but the Serbian loss of the pass exposes Prilep to speedy capture. Its inhabitants are fleeing southward.

With Prilep in their hands, the Bulgars' natural next objective will be Monastir, twenty-five miles south.

Hugh losses on both sides marked the Babuna pass fighting. Strategically the position is one of the most important in southern Serbia. It has been bitterly contested.

RECTOR LOSES CHURCH FIGHT.

"Curbstone Vestry" Wins Over The Rev. George Chalmers Richmond.

Philadelphia, Nov. 17.—By a decision handed down by Judge Ferguson, in Court of Common Pleas No. 3, yesterday afternoon the Rev. George Chalmers Richmond, who is at present being tried before the ecclesiastical board, and the members of his vestry are compelled to turn over all the church property to the opposing faction of St. John's Protestant Episcopal Church, Third and Brown streets. The decree of the court is a victory for the men who have constituted the "curbstone vestry."

The court order stiplates that the transfer must be made within 10 days and that the property must be given to Charles A. Brown, the rector's warden, who is one of the leading witnesses against the rector in the trial to decide whether or not he shall retain his frock.

Judge Ferguson, in his decision, says, in part:

"The rector appears to have set out in intrench himself both in the control of the vestry and the church property by methods that set at naugh the charter and by-laws of the corporation. In these attempts it seems to have been the mistaken notion of the rector and his supporters that the former had some sort of property right in the office which he held. So regarding the matter, they were not very particular in observing and protecting that right. It is needless to observe that a minister has no such property right."

Notice to State Taxpayers—I am now prepared to receive the State taxes for the year 1915. The attention of taxpayers is respectfully called to the importance of paying the same prior to December 1, 1915, as on that date a penalty of five per cent. will be added to all unpaid bills and their collection enforced as required by law.

12-ed-td. City Treasurer.

TORTURED AND SHOT

Villista Indians Reported to Have Killed American

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 17—Tortured after being stripped and forced to walk 5 miles across a desert while suffering from thirst, Joseph W. Tays is reported to have been robbed and killed by Villista Indians near San Blaz, Mexico. Protests that he was an American citizen were not heeded according to letter from Tays' father received by local relatives and made public. The execution took place in September, the letter stated.

According to the letter, dated September 29, Tays set out for Los Mochis 25 miles away, on September 5 in company with four companions and three Indian teamsters. They were met by 500 Indians of the Villa faction and made prisoners. Despite his protest of American citizenship they were forced to march naked and afoot 5 miles across the desert to the camp of Bachomo, Indian bandit chieftain.

Tays and his companions begged for water and their entreaties only brought forth thrusts of revolvers in their sides. All the while the Indians dangled full canteens before their fumished captives. On arriving at the camp of the Indian leader, the American and his companion were robbed of $900. Then they were lined up and shot. The Indian teamsters fled, but one was killed in trying to make his escape.

The father, accompanied by seven armed Americans, visited the scene of the tragedy next day, but was unable to recover the body of his son. Two days later, Bachomo sent word to Tays that he would kill him too if he persisted in searching for his son's body.

Three Americans were killed it is said in the interior of Mexico recently.

The Americans reported killed were Maurice Free and Charles Goldsborough, slain November 4, at Gateva and W. S. Windham, killed at Quimichis Tepic.

EXPERIMENTS IN CANCER

Recent Discoveries May Revolutionise Treatent.

New York, Nov. 17—Experiments in cancer that may revolutionize the treatment of that disease were disclosed today by Dr. James B. Murphy of the Rockefeffer Institute.

His remarkable research work was unfolded before the National Academy of Science during its session in the American Museum of Natural History.

"We have conducted three series of experiments with rats suffering from spontaneous cancer," he said. "These experiments were made with a view of lymphocytes in resisting cancer.

"Lmphocytes, as has long been known, are the white corpuscles in the blood, which attack foreign tissue. They attack cancerous growths, too, but to what extent was not known These experiments were made to find out.

"In the first series of experiments we took a number of rats with spontaneous cancer, and removed the cancer by operation. The animals were then subjected to X-ray treatment with a view of stimulating the lymphocytes.

"After this a minute portion of the cancer was replaced in the grain of the animals

"We found that only 50 per cent of the animals so treated were again susceptible to the disease. Of this number only 21.3 per cent showed local recurrence of the cancer. Fifty per cent were immune.

"How this treatment would apply to human beings I don't know.

Dynamite Safe in the St. Michaels, Md., Postoffice.

St. Michaels, Md. Nov. 17.—Yeggmen broke into the St. Michaels postoffice early yesterday morning, dynamited the safe and secured about $3,000 worth of stamps and about $75 in money. The toolhouse of the section foreman at the B., C. & A. R. R., station was also broken into and the motortruck car stolen, it is supposed, by the gang, the truck being used to make their getaway. The work was evidently done by experienced yeggs. A crowbar stolen from the same toolhouse was used in gaining an entrance to the rear of the postoffice.

FRENCH FAIL TO REGAIN TRENCH

Furious Assaults Repulsed Near Ecurie and 33 Civilians Killed

DAMAGE BY ITALIANS

Architectural and Ecclesiastical Landmarks in Gorizis Wrecked by Shells.

Berlin, Nov. 17—The War Office announced that on the western front an attempt by the French to regain possession of a trench east of Ecurie which they lost on November 14, resulted in failure.

In Lens, between October 22 and November 12, 33 civilians were killed and 55 wounded by French artillery fire. No damage was done, the War Office states, to military establishments.

The text of the announcement from the War Office is as follows:

"Western theatre of war: Three attempts of the French to recapture trenches we took from them northeast of Ecurie on November 14 failed. On the remainder of the front with the exception of artillery and mine warfare in different sectors, nothing of importance occurred.

"Repeated bombardments of Lens by artillery of the enemy in the period between October 22 and November 12 have resulted in the death of 33 inhabitants and the injury of 55. No military damage was done.

"Balkan theatre of war: Pursuit of the enemy continues vigorously. Yesterday more than 1000 Servians were taken prisoners and two machine guns and three cannon were captured."

Dispatches received here as given out by the Overseas News Agency furnish additional details of the damage inflicted by the Italian bombardment of Gorizia. Shells struck the famous tomb of Count de Chambord the French Legitimist prince, sometimes styled King Henry V, who died in exile in Austria. The Sacristy of the Gorizia Cathedral was demolished. The Church of Monte Santo was burned to the ground, as was half of the convent of the Ursuline nuns.

Various other churches were damaged or destrcyed and many art treasurers were lost. Pictures in the Franciscan Church of Castagnavizza were riddled with shrapnel shot. Two bombs fell among groups of children, causing the death of eight of them.

The Austrian-Hungarian army headquarters' reports of November 16 as received here says: "In the north section of the Doberdo highland. the engagement continued day and night. One the north slope of Monte San Michele, the Italians several times entered the Austro-Hungarain positions at night, but have been almost completely ejected from them.

"In the Balkan theatre, the Austro Hungarians are advancing everywhere They have reached the district of Uvae, Cigota Planina and the Javor heights.

"The German detachments of General Koevess have advanced on both sides of the road running from Kralievo to Novipazar and have taken Usice. The Austro-Hungarians further esatward near Babica have crossed the road from Raska to Kursumlya and stormed Servian trenches on the Lucak Mountain. They took as prisoners three officers and 110 men and captured one machine gun. The German and Bulgarian troops are approaching from the north and east to a point of juction at Kursumlya."

BISHOP THOMA'S LETTER.

Takes Issue with British Government In Impeding Emigration.

Dublin, Nov. 17. — Rev. Edward Thomas, the Catholic bishop of Limerick has written the following letter to the Munster News, which has been republished in other Irish newspapers:

"The treatment which poor Irish emigrant lads have received at Liverpool, is enough to make an Irishman's blood boil. What have they done to deserve insults and outrage at the hands of a brutal English mob?

"They don't want to be forced into the English army and sent to fight battles in some part of the world. They are supposed to be free men, but they are made to feel that they are prisoners who may be compelled to lay down their lives for a cause that is not worth three rows of nine pins to them.

"These poor Connought peasants know little or nothing of the meaning of war. They much prefer to be allowed to till their own potato gardens in peace. It seems a cruel wrong to attack them because they cannot rise to the level of the new imperialism of T. P. O'Connor and the rest of the new brigade.

"What have they done, or what have their forefathers ever got from England, that they should die for her?

"Mr. Redmond will say that the home rule act is on the statute book but any intelligent Irishman will say it is simulacrum of home rule, with express notice that it is never to come into operation.

"This war may be just or unjust but any fair minded man will admit it is England's war, not Ireland's Yet the poor fellow who don't see the advantage of dying for such a cause are to be insulted as Shirkers and Cowards

"If there is to be conscription, let it be enforced all around, but it seems to be intensely an injustice to leave the English shirkers by millions to go free and coerce the small remnant of the Irish race into a war which they don't understand."

Hoboken, N. J., Nov. 17.—Three attempts were made within an hour last night ot set fire to two strings of freight cars lined up in the Erie yards at Weekawken, containing five hundred horses awaiting shipment to the allies. The watchmen who discovered the fires spied three men in the yards, gave chase and fired several revolver shots, but the fugitives made good their escape.

CARDINAL FROWNS ON ARMY PLANS

Thinks Nation Faces No Danger That Militia Cannot Meet

HONOR ARCHBISHOP

Jubilee Marks Fifty Years as Priest and Philadelphia Cathedral's Anniversary.

Philadelphia, Nov. 17—For the United States to plunge into hysterical expenditure of money for increasing the army and navy at this time would be folly, according to Cardinal Gibbons, head of the Catholic Church in America, who came to Philadelphia last night to attend the fiftieth anniversary of the ordination of Archbishop Prendergast, which was held with many ceremonies today. The Cardinal's views of preparedness, as expressed in an interview given last night, included merely an increase in the militia of the various States, with better training than at present, but he is opposed to preparation for war on a great scale because, he says, this nation has nothing to fear.

The Cardinal made it clear, however, that he is not a peace-at-any price man. The nation, he said, should not be made defenuseless, as the extreme pacifists demand, but on the other hand, with nothing to fear, he said, it seemed to him absurd to plunge into warlike preparations.

The Cardinal was the chief of a large group of high church dignitaries who gathered in Philadelphia last night, preparatory to the magnificent ceremonies today. He came here from Baltimore, accompanied by Archbishop Bonzano, apostolic delegate to the United States. Cardinal Farley also came here from New York yesterday. Numerous archbishops and bishops also flocked into town, not to speak of scores of monsignori and priests from all parts of the country.

The celebration today marked the fiftieth anniversary of Archbishop Prendergast's ordination to the priesthood and at the same time the fiftieth aniversary of the opening of the Cathedral of Sts. Peter and Paul on Logan Square. The big Cathedral had been entirely renovated for the occasion, and is now one of the most beautiful churches in America, especially on the inside.

Today's exercises included a jubilee Mass in the morning, preceded by a procession of the hierarchy and clergy, numerous receptions will be held in the afternoon and the mammoth Holy Name parade of 50,000 Catholic men in the evening.

Archbishop Prendergast entertained the distinguished visitors at dinner in his residence adjoining the Cathedral last night. After the dinner Cardinal Gibbons granted the interview in the main reception room of the residence.

SINKING OF THE ANCONA.

Austrian Statement Places Responsibility of Loss of Life upon Officers and Crew.

Vienna, Nov. 17.—The full report of the commander of the submarine, which recently sank the Italian liner Ancona in the Mediterranean has not been received, but the report, on which the statement sent out Sunday by the Austro-Hungarian admiralty was based, showed, according to authoritative officials ,that the loss of a single life was unnecessary.

It is alleged that the crew of the Ancona were panic stricken from the beginning and actually lowered lifeboats while the ship was moving 14 miles an hour. These boats naturally were swamped, but it is asserted that there were still enough lifeboats to save everybody.

Furthermore, the charge is made that the members of the crew prempted the boats and rowed far from the steamer, the captain of which had been allowed almost 90 minutes for the safe removal of those aboard.

An oyster supper will be given at Christ Church Parish Hall Thursday evening from 5 to 9 for the benefit of the Emmanuel Chapel, Braddock Heights. Supper 25c.

MURDER SUSPECTED

Finding of Human Foot on City Dumping Grounds in Atlanta Creates Mystery.

Atlanta, Noc. 17—The finding by negro boys of a human foot on city dumping grounds in the outskirts of Atlanta has led a police investigation, which disclosed other pieces of human flesh the trunk and thigh. The foot and other flesh appeared to be that of a white woman. The police theory that a woman had been murdered and parts of her body hidden in the garbage pile apparently was strengthened by statements of three negro women living near-by-that early Sunday morning a cab dashed past their homes and they heard a woman scream for help.

Detectives later found pieces of a woman's clothing near where the human remains lay, but were unable to discover other human parts. The clothing appeared to have been hacked up with a sharp instrument. Search is being made tonight for a cabman who might have passed that section early Sunday.

Atlanta, Nov. 17—The finding of parts of a woman's body on the city dump heaps last night was explained today when a surgeon identified the parts as those amputated from a woman injured in a street car accident.

Her husband failed to bury them as directed.

WILSON'S CRITIC RESTORED.

President Orders Him Reinstated in Postal Service.

Washington, Nov. 17.—Definite instructions went from the White House to the Postoffice Department yesterday to reinstate George Burkitt, as assistant postmaster at Winnetka, Ill., regardless of what other charges, in addition to that of criticising the President for his engagement, were pending against him.

The instructions sent to the Postoffice Department were that Burkitt should be reinstated if no other charges were pending against him. Yesterday, the question was taken up again, and as a result orders were issued that he be reinstated unconditionally without further delay. Any other charges against Burkitt probably will be investigated by postoffice inspectors later.

Assistant Postmaster General Roper at once telegraphed instructions for the immediate reinstatement of Burkitt.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—George Burkitt, who was ordered reinstated as assistant postmaster at Winnetka, a suburb, by President Wilson yesterday, returned to his post yesterday.

EFFECTS OF BIG NAVY

Will Compel Other Nations to Build Bigger Ones, Says Lord Roseberry.

New York, Nov. 17—"I know of nothing more disheartening than the announcement that the United States is about to embark upon the construction of a huge Armada destined to equal, or be second only to that of Great Britain," declared Lord Roseberry, presiding at the Rhodes lecture at University College last night.

"This means," he continued, "that the burden of naval construction will continue to be borne by other nations whose navies will be increased exactly in proportion to the increase in the fleet of the United States.

"It is a disheartening prospect to think that the United States, so happily removed from the European conflict, should voluntarily take up a burden which, after the war, we will find has broken our backs."

The amazing ruses employed by female spies attempting to cross the Austro-Swiss frontier are revealed in a dispatch from Geneva. The Austrian military authorities force all women travelers to disrobe since it was discovered that military documents had been concealed beneath a porous plaster on the back of one of the spies.A woman, who bore her arm in a sling, was found to be carrying a message in a small tube inserted in a wound on her arm. All women travelers are led by female attendeants into a bathroom, where they are stripped and scrubbed, with hot water, Frequently this reveals small pieces of very thin tissue paper upon which are written military secrets. Often thin strips of tissue paper have been found stuck to women's bodies or hidden beneath cosmetics.

SPREAD OF GOSPEL TOPIC OF SYNOD

Episcopalians Discuss Missions on Opening Day of Conference

EARNEST ADDRESSES

John M. Glenn Will Speak Tonight in Mass Meeting at St. Paul's Church, Richmond.

Richmond, Nov. 17. —Spread of the Gospel by mission work featured the first day of the first annual synod of the Province of Washington, begun here yesterday and in the mass-meeting held last night in St. James Episcopal Church Right Rev. William LoyallGravatt, D. D., bishop coadjutor of West Virginia, and Rev. William H. Milton, D. D., of Wilmington, N. C., told of the great need which had been found by the workers of the Church and the way in which that need was being met.

The morning business program was confined to the reading and receiving of reports, and the meeting at night was devoted to speaking of the urgency of the appeal which the Episcopal churches are now making in behalf of the Gospel as it was taught by the First Teacher, and as it was carried into new fields by his twelve disciples. The mass-meeting was presided over by Right Rev. William Cabell Brown, D. D., bishop coadjutor of Virginia and chairman of the standing committee on missions. The president of the synod is Right Rev. John Gardner Murray, D. D., bishop if Maryland, who presided at the business sessions held during the day.

In introducing the two speakers of last night, Bishop Brown, said that the goal set by the primary synod held in Pittsburgh last year was $1,000,000, which had been considerably passed by the contributions already received, and in hand. However, there was still much to be done, and he expressed the desire of the Church that the mission spirit be carried forward until the Christian teachings were known to all the world. He said that one-half of the 204,000 communicants in the Province of Washington had failed to see the vision of a world saved, and that the defects in the present system of spreading the Gospel ought to be discussed. He introduced Bishop Gravatt, as the first speaker, on the assigned subject of "The Undeveloped Resources of the Church."

The Bible, Sunday-school teaching and the proper influence of money were the cardinal things which Bishop Gravatt thought needed Christian exploitation. He recited the history of the Church, in which its resources were administered without method, and said that the need of to-day was not fully understood or appreciated.

Bishop Gravatt said that one of the other undeveloped resources was the Sunday school. Training at home, he said, was largely neglected, and it was for the Sunday school to take the place of this neglected training, it is the duty of the Sunday school, he thought to teach the catechism, in which the fundamentals are found, and to keep them in the minds of the pupils, so that they would form an anchor for the later period of life.

The first annual meeting of the synod of the Province of Washington was held yesterday afternoon, with Rt. Rev. Rogers Israel, Bishop of the diocese of Erie (Pa.), presiding. The receipts from the eleven dioceses and from individuals for the past year, amounted to $2,921.58, and the expenditures for the field secretary, and for other purposes was $2,857.30, leaving a balance on hand of $64.28, Rev. Stewart U. Mitman, field secretary, delivered his report.

Rev. William E. Gardner, D. D., general secretary of the General Board of Religious Education, expressed his pleasure at the work that was being done within the province of Washington, and thought that through the work of the field secretary and through that of summer schools it was setting a high standard for the other provinces of the Episcopal church in the United States.

Rev. Mr. Diller, presented a brief report of the committee on Sunday school education.

ANNIVERSARY OF FIRE

Seven Alexandrians Killed By Falling Wall Sixty Years Ago Today

Crape was fluttering three score years ago today from the door knobs of several homes in Alexandria. The lives of seven of the city's gallant firemen had been snuffed out while the stars were still in the sky. There had been a fierce fire in the latter part of the twenties, which had wiped out a large section of the then small city. No lives had been lost, however, but on the 17th of November, 1855, the remains of seven men were dug out of debris, hot and steaming, at the old Smith china store, then conducted by Turner and Dowell, on the north side of King street, between Fairfax and Lee (then Water) street.

The story has often been told in the Gazette, and while not new to many Alexandrians who remembered that sad event, it is read over and over again by them, while new generations are interested in it, even as they are by reading of the great fire of London which raged for two weeks.

We were reading today in a scrap book of the Gazette an extra paper published in this city on the morning of the fire, giving all the details It is probably the only copy in existence. It tells of the discovery of the fire by two night watchmen, the progress of the conflagration, until it was finally placed under control by the firemen, and the fall of the wall after the danger of the fire spreading was virtually over. The men who were killed outright were Robert I. Taylor, George Plain, James Keene, J. Carson Greene, David Appich, and William Evans. John Roach died from his injuries, soon after he had been placed in his home.

The accident occurred on early Saturday morning. Five of the victims were buried the following Sunday afternoon, forming one funeral cortege, the largest ever witnessed in Alexandria. Appich was interred that morning, as was also Roach. Nearly the entire population was present at these funerals.

The monument in Ivy Hill Cemetery was erected next year to their memory of these men who died in the discharge of their duty.

RESISTED THE OFFICER.

In police court this morning John Trumbull was fined $5 for drunk and disorderly conduct and for resisting an officer. When Policeman Roberts placed the man under arrest last night he refused to go to the police station and was dragged there by the officer.

CRUSADERS' DREAMS WILL CRYSTALIZE.

The shade of Peter the Hermit may in the near future hover around those who will be entrusted with the responsibility of settling the affairs of the world at the close of the present war. His dream that he was called of God to deliver the Holy Land from the Moslems proved premature, but the time is drawing near when the cross, not the crescent, will wave over the most interesting portions of the globe. The New York Independent in commenting upon present conditions calls attention to the fact that, whatever the result of this war, Turkey as an independent power will be wiped off the map. If Germany wins, Turkey will be under her sphere of influence, independent only in name; if the allies win, the Turkish empire will be blown to the four winds of heaven.

The Turkish rule for the last five centuries has insulted heaven. It has been the rule of cruelty, murder and lust, and the present attempt to exterminate its Christian subjects has simply filled up the measure of its wrath.

The Turkish empire covers the choicest region historically of all the earth's surface. There human history begins. There ruled Babylonia, then Assyria, then Persia, then the Macedonian empire, then that of Rome, till Constantine established his capital on the Hellespont and ruled the world from the city that bears his name. Within what is now the Turkish empire the three great historical religions, the Hebrew, the Christian and the Mohammedan, had their origin.

The British are marching on Bagdad. They will hold the valley of the Tigris and Euphrates. They have had their eyes on the railroad connection with India ever since sixty years ago. England holds the Nile, and Bagdad will be a British capital, and once more the desert shall become a Garden of Eden and populous as in the days of old. The Arabian coast from the Persian gulf to the Red sea will equally be under British rule. From the north Russia will allow its fugitives to return to Armenia, and will hold that splendid region under some such independent rules as it promised Poland. Constantinople as a new capital of Russia, or as a free city under the protection of the powers, will again flourish as the emporium of the world, Asia Minor and Syria will be portioned out under the control of European nations, and wealth and enterprise will flow in a golden stream, while the scholarship of the world will for centuries search the ruins and mounds for the recovered records of ancient civilization.

THE PEACE OF DESOLATION.

Up to this time about three million of men have yielded their lives in the terrible European conflict, while many millions more have been made cripples for life, hundreds of thousands are invalids with no hope for permanent recovery, other hundreds of thousands have lost their sight, while the insane asylums are over-crowded by those whose minds have not been able to stand the stress of war's horrors.

As suggested by the Richmond Virginian, Europe seems as far from peace as it was when the war began, but it is by three millions of lives nearer it than it was a year ago. Russian peasant, German factory workers, English clerk, French farmer, the plodding folk of Austria-Hungary, the native of Michel Angelo's country, the heroic Serb, and now the Bulgar, crowd each other for that six feet of earth, the part of every son of woman. Europe is red with blood. The fount of its people's tears is well-nigh dried up. Sorrow is so general it is taken as a matter of course. So awful is it all that men even forget to pray for peace, asking instead for more strength to lay low their enemies.

The Virginian continuing says:

Yes, peace will come in time—the peace of the cemetery—the peace that surrounds the old homestead with all its people gone and its aforetime noble timbers in ashes—and the sun will shine while old men will mourn and women will weep, refusing to be comforted. Orphans will be told of their fathers who marched away to the rattle of drum and flare of cornets, never to return. And this is glory!

Death carnival still holds forth—that rulers may make a name for themselves in history and may impose their wills on alien peoples. But time will come when even these ruler so prodigal of human life themselves will breathe no more, and history will declare them slayers of men. This is war!

Does it pay? Can any advantage any nation might gain be considered for a moment a sufficient offset for the loss of life and all the attendant horrors of such strife? And what normal man, with the love of God and a fellow-feeling for his kind in his heart, wants empire, or trade, or glory that he must attain by murdering his neighbor?

A superficial view of life, we take it, a religion of the head rather than of the heart, a lust for power not understood by the average man—all these have, we believe, obsessed the minds of the men responsible for Europe's death-throes, and have caused a catastrophe the end of which no man can see.

For the nations who were forced to take up arms to defend their homes the world sorrows. For the peoples of the aggressor nations who are themselves the victims of their imperial masters the world's heart bleeds. But for those who unloosed the dogs of war men have a verdict which puts on those rulers' brows the mark of Cain.

WILL JAPAN ASSIST ALLIES.

To just what extent the German advance toward the Orient will arouse the apprehension of Japan, and to what extent the allies would welcome her assistance in the pending struggle, are not yet apparent, but all indications point to the possibility that these questions will not be long delayed. The Cleveland Plain Dealer makes the following practical observations.:

It has been frequently pointed out that Japan may have more than an academic interest in the Serbian campaign. If Serbia is conquered the Teuton-Ottoman union will be complete. Egypt will be attacked and then Persia. In both fields the chances of German success will not be remote. The Near East might become wholly Germanized. And then it would not be a long stride to India and the Far East.

German hatred of Japan is intense. Japan does not feel and strong hatred toward Germany. A small Japanese army eliminated Germany from the Orient, and Japan fancied she had no further direct interest in the war. She also fancied that the anti-German coalition would have no large difficulty in winning the war in Europe.

But the allies are as yet not winning the war in Europe. Germany is victorious, and just at present Japan reads future danger.

A group of Tokio statesmen frankly favors Japanese intervention in Europe. They desire the immense prestige desirable from successful cooperation with the western powers. And it is certain that the European allies, regardless of future political complications, would welcome the advent of a Japanese army.

The British government is no longer considering conscription. Premier Asquith announced in the house of commons yesterday that he, together with the other members of the cabinet, believed that compulsory service will not be necessary. "We are confident that the recruiting system of Lord Derby will secure adequate response from the nation," declared the prime minister. Voluntary enlistments have recently grown considerably.

Col. Roosevelt's supposed scheme for raising a cavalry brigade of 12,000 men for service against Germany in the event of war and the colonel's alleged disappointment at the loss of the opportunity are described by Sydney Brooks in the London Daily Mail. After the Lusitania was sunk, Mr. Brooks says, "the generals, colonels, majors and some of the captains" for the new rough riders were actually selected, and Mr. Roosevelt calculated that within three minths after the declaration of war he and his men would be in Flanders.

The State Department yesterday indicated that it was not convinced by the statement of the Austrian admiralty, recently given out, that the submarine which sank the Italian passenger steamship Ancona with the loss of American lives was of Austrian, and not German, nationality. The department formally began a diplomatic investigation into the incident by sending a cablegram to Ambassador Penfield at Vienna instructing him to get all the details from the Austrian foreign office and report as quickly as possible.

The Chicago Daily News publishes, on authority "of a man who is familiar with ever act of the grand jury," a story that 100 business agents of labor unions of Chicago will be indicted by the November grand jury. The charges, it is said, include bribery, conspiracies and slugging affairs, Great secrecy masked the inquiry and it is said that many business men and contractors testified as to the methods of business agents, who acted without the authority of their unions. Hundreds of thousands of dollars are said to have changed hands in the alleged "shake-downs."

Rogozzino shot Delerio because the wealthy man was about to get his clotches on a pretty country girl living near York, Pa. The police said that Rogozzino fell in love with the girl when he and Delerio met her on their summer vacation. Rogozzino denied this. "She was a good girl," said the prisoner. "I told Delerio not to touch her with his slimy hands. On Monday night he showad me a letter from her. She was going to run away, she said, and meet Delerio in Ne wYork. He waved the letter in my face and laughed. Then I shot him."

"Report that I am a candidate for Secretary of the Commonwealth is pure fiction. I am a candidate for Lieutenant Governor in the Democratic primary of August, 1917," This telegram was received in Richmond yesterday from Judge Martin Williams, of Giles, who was reported to have announced his candidacy for the post now held by Colonel B. O. James.

Johnson near South Norfolk on October 25 last. After deliberating for 15 minutes the jury returned a verdict sending Flora to the electric chair. The earnings were about $2,000 greater than any previous month shown, the exports were greater than those in September and August, but less than those in July. Only one bank, St. Louis, failed to show an excess of earnings over expenses, although the Philadelphia bank showed a surplus of only $77.35 for the month. The Richmond bank led all others in earnings, with $26,872. Its expenses were $10,133.

A committee from the Mennonite Church publishes in a Harrisonburg paper a strong protest against certain teachings in the public schoolbooks of Virginia. The protest took the form of a resolution at the recent session of the Virginia Conference, a copy of which was sent to the State Board of Education. The resolution protested against features that "suggest the erroneous and untruthful hypothesis concerning the origin of man"; that "glorify war and bloodshed and advocate hero worship," and that gives undue prominence to "Mother Goose stories" and "fairy tales," at the expense of better and more wholesome literature.

Following an examination of the office of Alvah H. Martin, clerk of the Norfolk county court, the committee named by Judge C. W. Coleman has submitted a report charging that the clerk has collected in many instances fees not authorized by law. It is alleged that in other instances the clerk has made overcharge collections for recording deeds to several hundred dollars for making out certified lists of voters; that delinquent poll tax payers were made to pay more than required by law and were charged fees, without warrant in any law, of fifty and twenty-five cents hundred dollars, for making out certified lists were paid by the Board of Supervisors when they should have been paid by the clerk; that certain books and papers in the clerk's office are in bad condition; that proper fee books are not kept, and that numerous duties required by law are not performed. Martin has published a sweeping denial of the charges.

While the fire department was responding to an alarm on Bollingbrook Street last night a blaze broke out in the store of. J. W. Thomas & Co., wholesale dealers in crockery and tinware, Petersburg. Zemo for Dandruff

You do not want a slow treatment when hair is falling and the dandruff germ is killing the hair roots. Delay means—no hair.

Get, at any drug store, a bottle of zemo for 25c or $1.00 for extra large size. Use as directed, for it does the work quickly. It kills the dandruff germ, nourishes the hair roots and immediately stops itching scalp. It is sure and safe, is not greasy, is easy to use and will not stain. Soaps and shampoos are harmful, as they contain alkali. The best thing to use is zemo, for it is pure and also inexpensive.

Zemo, Cleveland.

SEVERE PUNISHMENT

Of Mrs. Chappell, of Five Years' Standing, Relieved by Cardui.

Mt. Airy, N. C.--Mrs. Sarah M. Chappell of this town says: "I suffered for five years with womanly troubles, also stomach troubles, and my punishmen was more than any one could tell.

I tried most every kind of medicine but none did me any good.

I read one day about Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I decided to try it. I had not taken but about six bottles until I was almost cured. It did me more good than all the other medicines I had tried, put together.

My friends began asking me why I looked so well, and I told them about Cardui. Several are now taking it."

Do you, lady reader, suffer from any of the ailments due to womanly trouble such as headache, backache, sideache sleeplessness, and that everlastingly tired feeling?

If so, let us urge you to give Cardui a trial. We feel confident it will help you just as it has a million other women in the past half century.

Begin taking Cardui to-day. You won't regret it. All druggists.

Independence, Va., tells of a remarkable cure that was effected in that vicinity. One of his customers was so badly afflicted with stomach trouble that he was sent to a hospital, but received little benefit and came home to die. Mr. Williams suggested that he try Chamberlain's Tablets which he did, and today he is a well man and weighs 175 pounds. Obtainable everywhere.

Bronchitis

When a severe cold settles on the lungs it is called bronchitis. There is danger of its leading to broncho pneumonia, and for this reason it is always best to go to bed and take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as directed until well along toward recovery. Mrs. Charles E. Woodard, Sandy Creek, N. Y. writes: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cured me of bronchitis last fall. When I began using it I was so hoarse at times that it was difficult for me to speak above a whisper. I resorted to the use of this valuable medicine and found it very soothing and healing.
